The services at the Catholic Church The Holy name of Mary, on Tuesday afternous, were exceedingly solemn and impressive; and we propose to give some description of it, for the benefit of those who were not present.

As the clock struck five, the procession headed by the Cross-bearer and assistants. angels, so called, on this occasion, a select number of children attending the school of the Sisters attired in white dress es, with wreaths, bouquets and baskets of flowers, to the number of twenty-eight, moved from the IIall door of the Convent. accompanied by the Mother Superioress and other ladies of this religious communty, in the usual dress of their Order, to the Church and through the centre aisle to the Chancel, where they were received by the ordinary of the diocese, Right Rev. Bishop O'Reilly, Right Rev. Dr. McGill, of Richmond, Va., Rev. Mr. Fitton, Pastor of the Church, and his accolytes and assistants.-If ever this Church might be called beautiful, and truly it is a master-piece of Gothic art, of the early decorative style, it was indeed so to the eyes of the immensa audiance assembled on this occasion,-with its gilded altars, adorned with statuary, lights and vases in chasto profusion.

This is what is termed the ceremony of recording. The Postulants.—who were to he admitted to two years noviship, that is, a time of probation before they are allowed to unite themselves with the Order, the object of which is to attend the sick, the aged, prisoners, and educate children,-were Miss Hannah Sullivan, called in religion Sister Ignatius, and Miss Mary Ann Madden, Sinter Regis. These two young ladies in bridal attire, pure white, with white lace streaming from their heads, on which were wreaths of beautiful flowers, knels between the Superioress and Assistant, the local Superioress of this city, sister Mary Borgia, while the choir sung "O Gloriosa Virginum," &c. This being finished, the Celebrant, the Bishop of the Diocese, recited the Prayers used on such occasions.-The Sermon was preached by Bishop Mcpractical production. After the address by Bishop McGill, the Postelants were conducted by the Superioress and assistant before the Celebrant, who sat on the platform of the alter, when the following questions were propounded and answered;

Colebrant. My child, what do you demand 7 Postulant. The mercy of God, and the holy habit of religion.

Celebrant. Is it with your own free will you demand the hely habit of religion?

Postulant. Yes, Right Rev. Sir. The Celebrant then asked of the Supe rioress if she had made the necessary enquiries and was satisfied as to the vocation and sincere desire of the Postulants,—to which she answered in the affirmative -The Celebrant again addressing the Postatalants asked of them if they had thought deeply upon the subject, and were in exprotation of being able to carry the yoke of our Lord Jesus Christ, solely for the loveand four of God. To which they severally replied in the affirmative, relying, as they said, on the mercy of God. After these questions and answers, the Superioress and Assistant repred with the Postulants to the Sheristy, to change their secular dresses,wreaths, veils, jewelry, &c., for the religious habit of the Order; during which the Cheristers in the Cheir and Chancel sang alternately the exili psalm. The procession having returned to the Chancel, the Celebrant continued the form of prayers, while the Superioress and Assistant placed the white veil on the heads of the Postulunts, and presented them with their cinetures, rosaries and crosses. Here all knelp while the Choir sang the hymn, "Veni, Creator Spiritus," invoking the influence of the Divine Spirit. After this the Celebrant continued other prayers and gave the final blessing, while the Choir sang the beautiful psalm exaxii, Ecce quam benam, behold how good and how pleasant a thing it is &c.; the procession then returned in the same order as it entered. It was a very solemn and imposing occasion, and one which will not soon be forgotten,

Andrew M. Barber, Esq , editor of the Otsego Republicate, formerly of this city, made a flying trip to the home of his youth on Wednesday.

CLEARING A LOCOMOTIVE .-- An Englishmun, who recently travelled through the United States, gives the following incident: "Turning a corner, we came auddenly in aight of a loard with the well known notice. "Look out for the lecomotive when the bell rings," which was made more impressive by hearing the signal, and seeing the line, of steam announcing the preximity of a train. I was somewhat anxious, as my driver did not manifest the slightest disposition to stop. As usual, the road and railway crossed on the same level, which did not lessen my anxiety. "Hold hard, stop stop!" I cried, and as these words received no attention, I rose from my seat and grasped the driver's arm, for the purpose of arresting our progress, but in vain,-Iashing the horses with redoubled energy, he replied to my entreaties to stop, by the assurance that he would go ahead of the en gine and to my horror, on we went, buggy and train approximating rapidly at right angles; the locomotive's bell meanwhile ringing furiously what seemed to be my death-knell. Finding all my efforts to avert an acticinal. ad colfision were futile, I resumed thy seat an I resigned myself to my fate. What I did or said for the next few moments I knew not : but I remember a feeling of sickness came over me as we dashed across the line, and I beheld the fron horse rushing onward and almost felt the hot blast of its steam jets. "There, I told you I'd clear the daned thing," said my driver, chuckling over the achievment.
